City Tax Rate $16, Lowest in Years

EVY ON MARION REALTY SET FOR COMING YEAR

te Hits New Low in Drop started in 1934; List Other County Levies.

The Marion city tax rate for the coming year will be $16 on $1,000 of property valuation, the lowest rate here in many years.

Announcing the new rate, City Auditor Harry V. Mounts, said that the rate for the coming year will be $16 on $1,000 of property valuation, the lowest rate here in many years.

The new rate does not include additional tax levy that will be levied on the passage of the election of bond issues for municipal airport and sewer system program.

On the tax rate will depend on progress made in getting projects underway and the bonds are sold. It is expected that they will not be levied until the coming year.

It is interesting to note that the city voters passed the new jobs and progress projects resulting tax rate would still be lower than the rate that existed during the 1920s and the early 1930s.

Based on the rate for 1945 and the additional revenue needed for the jobs and progress projects, the resulting levy would have been in the neighborhood of $20 on $1,000 of property value.

The bond issues would have added approximately $4 a thousand to the tax rate.

All Approved Tax rates for the coming year for Marion county subdivisions were approved by the state tax commissioner after presentation by Auditor Mounts.

Twenty-nine subdivisions will have higher rates, two are lower and 20 are unchanged. The increases result principally from school bond issues and tax levies for the most part added to the tax rate.

The new rates will be in effect (Turn to TAX RATE, Page 12)

Request To Be Made For School Bond Vote Recount

Unanimous Action Taken by Civic Planning Group Executive Committee; Will Recheck All Precincts.

By W. T. BUCHANAN The executive committee of the Marion Civic Planning Group last night voted unanimously to request the Marion county board of elections to make a recount of votes on the city school bond issue which lost by six votes in the Nov. 6 election.

The request for the recount will be filed with the election board probably today or tomorrow. It cannot be filed until the board has certified official results of the election to the secretary of state.

A meeting of the board of elections will be held Monday to set a date for starting the recount. The Planning Group's request will be for a recheck of all the 30 Marion precincts and the two Marion township precincts, parts of which are in the city school district.

Possible Courses Discussed The 23 members of the executive committee present at last night's meeting in Hotel Harding acted to ask the recount after hearing a discussion of possible courses of action in regard to the school bond situation.

The discussion covered the possibility of a recount to learn immediately if the needed votes could be found, or making no recount request but instead laying plans to resubmit the proposal to the voters at a future election.

Salient facts and advantages of the two proposals were placed before the group by J. B. Bray and Wilfred E. Schaffner. The discussion served to weigh the advantages and disadvantages of the two proposals with a view to finding the best means of carrying the school program through to a successful conclusion.

Recount Generally Favored It was felt that there was a popular demand for a recount. The final decision was based on the opinion that this method would be the fairest way of satisfying both those in favor of and those opposed to the project as to the final outcome.

Members of the board felt that a recount should be made before a future course of action is contemplated which may call for presenting the program at another election in case the needed votes are not found.

Members of the committee are aware that in a recount there is as great a chance of losing votes as there is of gaining them.

Recount Procedure The recount will be made at the offices of the board of elections either by the board members themselves or by clerks employed especially for the purpose. Definite decision on this point probably will be made at the board meeting Monday night.

In any event the recount will be made in the presence of members of the board. Those favoring the proposal and those opposed to it are entitled by law to have one representative each present.

Jap Pre-War Prying Bared at Pearl Harbor Hearings

By The Associated Press WASHINGTON, Nov. 15—Japanese envoys in Washington reported to Tokyo the day before Pearl Harbor that they had been working with "influential" individuals behind their "frontal negotiations" with President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull.

This was disclosed today in the release by the congressional committee investigating the Pearl Harbor disaster of intercepted diplomatic messages sent by the Japanese between July 1 and Dec. 8, 1941.

Committee Counsel William D. Mitchell officially disclosed the breaking of the Japanese diplomatic code in the summer of 1941 when he placed a 253-page printed copy of intercepted messages into the record.

Negotiations Bared One "urgent" secret message to Tokyo dated Dec. 6 read: "In addition to carrying on front negotiations with the President and Hull, we have worked directly and indirectly through cabinet members having close relations with the President and through individuals equally influential (because of its delicate bearing upon this state department, please keep this point strictly secret). Up until this moment we have the following to report:

(1) On the fourth those engaged in plan (A) dined with the President and advised him against a Japanese-American war and urged him to do the 'introducing' at once between Japan and China. However, the President did not make known what he had in mind. According to these men, the attitude of the President is his usual attitude. Recently, when the President discussed matters with Lewis and settled the strike question, I understand that he did so on the advice of these individuals.

(2) Those carrying on plan (B) included all of our proposal on November 20th into that of September 25th and after incorporating those sections in the United States' proposal of November 26th which are either innocuous or advantageous to us—(message incomplete).

Blame the U. S. Throughout the messages ran the Japanese contention that they weren't starting a war—that the United States and Britain were pushing them into it.

A December 7 message from Budapest to Tokyo said: "On the 6th, the American minister presented to the government of this country a British government communique to the effect that a state of war would break out on the 7th."

The Japanese consul at Honolulu was disclosed in another committee exhibit to have reported to Tokyo on December 6, 1941, that these vessels were in Pearl Harbor on that date.

"Nine battleships, three light cruisers, three submarine tenders, 17 destroyers, and, in addition, there were four light cruisers, two destroyers lying at docks (the heavy cruisers and airplane carriers have all left)."

The message, intercepted by the Navy, added: "It appears that no air reconnaissance is being conducted by the fleet air arm."

Notations in the exhibit showed this message was not translated until December 8.

Mail Is Packed Curiosity-drawn spectators filled seats and pressed for standing room today as a joint senate-house committee opened public hearings on the Pearl Harbor disaster.

POWERS REFUSE TO SHARE "KNOW-HOW" UNTIL RULES FIXED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15—Creation of a United Nations commission to control the threat of atomic destruction in the world was proposed today by the United States, Great Britain and Canada as the best way to tackle the atomic energy problem.

President Truman and Prime Ministers Attlee and Mackenzie King made this known in a joint communique on their three power talks.

At the same time, they declared that the three nations, which alone possess the know-how of atomic bomb manufacture, would not share that knowledge until "it is possible to devise effective, reciprocal and enforceable safeguards acceptable to all nations."

List Four Points The commission which the three leaders proposed at the conclusion of their six-day conference on atomic problems would be charged with the duty to make specific proposals on these four points:

"1. For extending between all nations the exchange of basic scientific information (on all subjects) for peaceful ends.

"2. For control of atomic energy to the extent necessary to ensure its use only for peaceful purposes."

"3. For the elimination from national armaments of atomic weapons and of all other major weapons adaptable to mass destruction.

"4. For effective safeguards by way of inspection and other means to protect complying states against the hazards of violations and invasions."

In a 1,000-word statement setting forth the results of their discussions, the three chiefs of state prefaced their proposals by saying flatly:

"We are aware that the only complete protection for the civilized world from the destructive use of scientific knowledge lies in the prevention of war.

"No system of safeguards that can be devised will of itself provide an effective guarantee against production of atomic weapons by a nation bent on aggression.

"Nor can we ignore the possibility of the development of other weapons, or of new methods of warfare, which may constitute as great a threat to civilization as the military use of atomic energy."

The statement made a distinction between what was called the "fundamental scientific information" about atomic development and "the specialized information regarding the practical application of atomic energy."

The three leaders noted that actually the scientific information "has already been made available to the world," and they added that "it is our intention that all further information of this character that may become available from time to time shall be similarly treated."

Obviously with Soviet Russia primarily in mind, they then said that "we trust that other nations will adopt the same policy, thereby creating an atmosphere of reciprocal confidence in which political agreement and cooperation will flourish."

But as for the detailed knowledge of practical application of atomic energy, the three asserted that should be kept secret until the world is better organized, through the United States, to receive it with strong assurances that it would not be used for destructive purposes.

The statement was issued by President Truman, Attlee and Mackenzie King at a White House press conference.

Bad News for General Grant: Japs Cut Down His Old Banyan

By HAL BOYLE
AP Feature Writer
NAGASAKI — Today we have bad news for General Grant. Some Japanese scalawags cut down his old banyan.

They not only cut it down—they piled the site high with stone and rubble. So if any member of the Grant fan league planned to come out to Japan next year to pluck a memorial twig from the Grant banyan tree he may as well save himself the passage money. Twigs, leaves, trunk and memorial tablet all vanished—the Grant banyan tree is gone, a casualty of the Second World War.

The story goes back 66 years before the atomic bomb brought the full impact of American military culture to Nagasaki.

Our emissary to this Jap-

anise port city in 1879 was Gen. Ulysses Simpson Grant, regarded by some as the Civil War's human forerunner of the atomic bomb.

Grant came, however, as an unofficial ambassador of peace. Only two years before, he had been released from further White House duty by a grateful citizenry who then thought two terms as President were enough.

The general and Mrs. Grant called at Nagasaki on a world tour. He was feted and lauded as "Grant-shogun" and local Japanese dignitaries took him out to Suwa park and asked him to plant a souvenir tree—in three days tree-planting seemed to be the equivalent of modern cornerstone-laying ceremonies.

Became an Attraction

The whiskered general, presumably puffing on his famous cigar, went to work with a will. He planted well. Long after the general and his tomb had become the chief tourist attraction on Riverside Drive, his banyan tree still flourished in Nagasaki.

an object pointed out to all American visitors.

As late as 1941 the official guide to Japan put out by the Japanese government railways still listed the banyan tree as an attraction of special interest to foreign visitors.

Late in that year there occurred an event at Pearl Harbor which made further publication of the guide unnecessary. The tourist industry slumped sharply.

Realizing that many Grant students back home must be worried over whether the renowned banyan tree had weathered the atomic bomb blast, we led the first American expedition to determine its fate. Two British correspondents who came along, as observers to protect other Allied interests, grumbled when they found we first had to climb 167 stone steps leading to the "bronze horse temple."

But we pushed on. At the top a middle-aged Japanese civilian agreed, with many gold-toothed grins, to show us the banyan tree of "Grant-shogun." Mapping perspiring faces we followed him around the winding path to a clearing among the trees where stood a great mound of stone and rubble.

No More Tree

"Grant-shogun banyan tree there," he said, pointing to the mass of stone. But there was no banyan tree, no tree of any kind.

"Where?" we asked.

"Chop, chop, chop," he grinned. His smile faded, however, when we turned accusing looks on him.

"Not me!" he exclaimed in perfect broken English, and left hurriedly, galloping back down the 167 steps two at a time.

Questioning other Japanese, Glenn Babb, Associated Press foreign editor, learned that Grant's banyan memorial had been cut down with several other trees three years ago to make space in which to dump dirt and stone from air raid shelters dug in the surrounding hills. Neither park nor adjoining temple shrine were affected by the atomic bomb, which exploded several miles away.

No trace of Grant's banyan tree or stone memorial tablet, both victims of the American air campaign, is left.

It remains for other Grant scholars to establish what happened to the Grant pine tree which the general planted in Suwa park, Tokyo, in 1879—apparently one of his busiest tree-planting years. This column can take up only one Grant tree at a time.

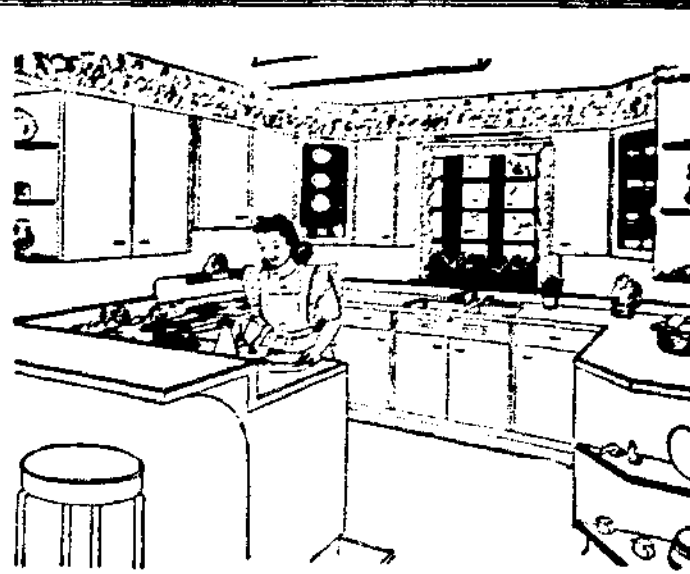

Canada has an area of 3,695,189 square miles.

EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes
Flush Out Poisonous Waste

If you have excess acids in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be overworked. These 15 miles of tubes are working day and night to keep Nature rid your system of excess acids and poisonous waste.
When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause rheumatism, backache, rheumatoid arthritis, loss of sleep and energy, getting up night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or acute attacks with aching and burning pain sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Kidneys may need help the same as bowels, to ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's gives kidney relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisons from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Still later as the equipment became modernized, various lengths of ladder were added to the trucks and the engine was known as a quadruple or four-fold combination. For convenience sake, firemen dropped the last two syllables and the truck became known as a quad truck. (i.e. a fire engine equipped with pump, hose, chemicals and ladders.)

The quad truck referred to so frequently in local news accounts was purchased in 1943. The truck has a 200-horsepower Marmon motor, a 20-foot wheelbase and is 35 feet in length over all. In addition to the pump, chemicals and hose it is equipped with the following ladder sections: one 18-foot, one 16-foot, two 20-foot, two 24-foot, one 28-foot, one 35-foot and one 50-foot.

Army Relaxes Rule on Overseas Mailing

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Larger and heavier packages now may be mailed to American troops outside the United States. The war department said that beginning today packages up to 42 inches long or 72 inches in length and girth combined and weighing up to 11 pounds may be sent. Previous regulations set a limitation of 15 inches in length, 36 inches in length and girth combined and a maximum weight of five pounds. It still will be necessary to have a specific request from a soldier overseas in order to send any package weighing more than eight ounces.

Kroger Co. Announces Victory Loan Plans

A total of approximately $3,000,000 in Victory Bonds will be bought by the Kroger Grocery and Baking company during the current bond drive. B. P. Redman, Kroger branch manager in charge of stores in this area, announced today.

Subscription will be on the basis of $1,000 for each Kroger store, and will be allocated to counties in which the stores are located so that local War Finance committees will receive credit on their quotas.

This policy of local allocations, followed in previous War Loan drives, has been favorably received. Redman said, adding that for Columbus branch Kroger's total Victory Bond subscription will be $216,000. Individual purchases of bonds by employees of the firm will swell the total, he said.

Hobo Party Features Silver Street P.T.A.

A hobo party was the highlight of the Silver Street P.T.A. program in charge of Mrs. Lawrence Moore at a meeting held last night in the Silver Street school building. Clifford George and Mrs. Delbert Schenker received awards in a judging of the best dressed hobos.

Contests and games were followed by refreshments in charge of Mrs. Clifford George. Plans the company-owned country club.

FINED IN PRIORITY ABUSE

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 15.—A fine of $142.25 was imposed yesterday by Federal Judge W. L. E. Barker on the Western Steel Company, which pleaded guilty to a priority violation by illegally installing a priority system on its company-owned country club.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

THIS IS 1945

Editor of The Star: One in America, two in Japan, have made concrete all the previous methods of men killing their brothers from across the globe. Samson, down through the ages to Churchill, Hitler, etc. Nearly all our great munitions factories, where they made machine-guns, cannons, 16 inches and 80 feet long, warships, trucks, jeeps, flame throwers, planes and a few atomic bombs were the world. But kings, rulers, etc. are terribly scared now. They used to make the little people kill each other while they played while now some of these atomic eggs in Washington or New York City, it might ruin Wall Street.

The great Golden Calver, pastured at Fort Knox, or near Denver, Colorado, worth (we say) 25 billion dollars and which we imported from South Africa and all over the world are now worthless, as a few atomic bombs could blow them all to pieces.

The B-29, of 1, that met in London have gone home, and plenty was done. They agreed on nothing, because the U.S.A. did not tell how the atomic bombs were made to Molotov, who has gone to the U.S.S.R. and they have appropriated a billion to encourage their scientists to make some of their own atomic energy and bombs. Oh yes, we trust you but keep away from me. So Byrnes returns to show Truman (from Moscow), and white-wash our radio and waves to us "Little People."

"Our free enterprise people" say just leave it to Truman and let him decide on who can own this atom energy that could take the place of coal, oil and electric power, in driving all our automobiles and heating our homes.

Turn on the atomic energy. Let's go places without monopoly and the profit system. This is 1945.

EUGENE U. BRIGGS, Prospect, O.

WAINWRIGHT

down the tracks at us, stopped a few yards in front of the untracked engine and we transferred our baggage and ourselves. The colonel accompanied us to the main line, which we reached at 10:30 a. m.

The next train to Mukden was not due until 5 p. m., so the Russian colonel invited us to lunch in the curious hotel built right over the railroad station's platform. Everyone, including Lieut. Marui, our erstwhile keeper, was asked. When we were assembled, the colonel began rapping for something. Through Leith he made it known that he wanted something alcoholic with which to propose a toast. Leith produced Lieut. Marui.

"Does the Japanese Army have any wine or liquor?" the colonel demanded of Marui.

"Undoubtedly," Marui answered with some pride.

"Get it!" the colonel ordered, and glared him out of the room. We waited 15 minutes and then Marui came back, somewhat crestfallen, with several bottles of Jap beer. He started to make an apology but the colonel waved him aside, passed bottles to Mr. Governor vanStarkenborough and Gen. Perceval and we drank several toasts to the continued solidarity of the Axis.

At 4:30 p. m., while we were waiting for the regular train to come through, a train consisting of several coaches and the flat cars pulled into the station. The coaches had requisitioned in. We loaded our baggage and the Russian jeep on the flat cars and we landed them down in the manner of a train wreck. It was a train wreck before the colonel could reach a superior officer in Mukden and get clearance for this special train. But at last we were under way and at 1 a. m. on Aug. 27 we pulled into the Mukden station. The engine promptly uncoupled and left us parked there in the dark place. The Russian came to our wooden car and made us food farewells and they, too, left ignoring the jeep on the flat cars.

I was doing at 2:45 a. m. when

Sgt. Carroll shook me and said that Lieut. Marui had arrived. He had been searching for us for more than two days and even had planes out looking for our convoy.

Invitation from MacArthur

Lamar had starting news. Two planes were waiting for us at the Mukden airport and would take us off for Chungking after making a stopover at Hankow. He told me that Gen. MacArthur had invited Gen. Perceval and me to visit Yenching, and that we were to be the formal surrender of the Japanese nation, to take place on Aug. 27. The two available planes could carry out 30 passengers with 30 tons came to our wooden car and made us food farewells and they, too, left ignoring the jeep on the flat cars.

I was doing at 2:45 a. m. when comp whose enlisted men had been the Jap factory so much as possible.

Lamar asked me to make up a list of the passengers for the first trip. As he from our group from the Jap factory so much as possible. Lamar asked me to make up a list of the passengers for the first trip. As he from our group from the Jap factory so much as possible.

(TOMORROW: Back to Mukden.)

By the Associated Press

SOLDIER IN NEWBORN

Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Ingram of Marion, formerly of Marion, have a film showing their son, Cpl. William Ingram at a French summer resort. The manager and operator of a Fostoria theater, after hearing their attention called to the film, made a still picture and presented part of the film to the parents. Cpl. # Prexies Face Springfield in Last Tilt Friday Night

Wildcats Bring 5-4 Record to Harding Battle; Five Seniors in Final Game.

By BILL COULTER

Football will make its exit from Marion for the season Friday night when the Springfield Wildcats invade Harding Stadium for a clash with the Harding Prexies. The Prexies, now bearing a record of one victory and eight losses have a strong determination to win this curtain drawing contest. The Wildcats' record stands at five wins and four defeats.

In their season opener, Springfield edged Columbus West 13-7. A couple of weeks later, the Cowboys from Columbus slopped a 25-7 decision on Harding. Mansfield, who downed the Prexies in the first game of the season 37-0, had little trouble in disposing of Springfield a few weeks ago by a 41-6 margin.

2-Handled Football for Fumbling Bucks Awarded Widdoes

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 15 — Ohio State's Coach Carroll Widdoes has a two-handed football head like to use in Saturday's game with Illinois here.

Widdoes, addressing the Ohio State Journal's Quarterback club last night, reported jokingly. "The Young Businessmen's club gave me a football with two handles on it. We'd sure like to use it Saturday."

In their last home game here against Northwestern, the Bucks fumbled eight times, Northwestern recovering six to halt three serious touchdown threats. The Bucks finally won, however, 16 to 14.

Cavarretta Voted Most Valuable in National

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—Phil Cavarretta of the Chicago Cubs, who put an unofficial 355 during the past season and then wailed ball for a .423 mark in the World Series against Detroit, has been voted the National league's most valuable player for 1945 by an overwhelming margin.

The 29-year-old first baseman received 15 first place votes, seven second and one-fifth out of 24 ballots cast by a committee representing the Baseball Writers' association. He will be the second recipient of the Kenesaw Mountain Landis Memorial plaque, first awarded last year to Marty Marion, St. Louis Cardinals shortstop.

Holmes Next

Cavarretta's total of 279 points out of a possible 336 placed him far in front of Tommy Holmes of the Boston Braves, who ran second with 175. They battled for the National league batting championship most of the season, with Cavarretta winning out to the stretch.

Charley (Red) Barrett, St. Louis pitcher who won 23 games, placed third with 151 points, and Andy Pafko, Cubs centerfielder, was fourth with 131. George "Whitey" Kurowski of the Cards ran fifth with 90 points.

Following are the point scores for the high 10, based on 14 points for first, nine for second, eight for third, and on down to one for tenth place. (First place votes are in parentheses):

STEVE O'NEILL WINS CLEVELAND'S PRAISE

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 15 — Manager Stephen Francis O'Neill of the world champion Detroit Tigers is a great guy.

That was the principal sentiment of 10 speakers and some 500 eaters attending a civic banquet last night honoring the one time Minooka, Pa., coal miner who played on Cleveland's only world championship baseball club and later managed the Indians—who considerably less success than he has had with the Tigers.

The dinner was sponsored by the Cleveland chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America. And one of the members declared, "Tonight we are engaged in patching up a throat which we cut eight years ago."

O'Neill, who makes his home in Cleveland, was presented with a $1,000 Victory bond. One of the speakers also received a gift. Gov. Lausche, who celebrated his 50th birthday yesterday, was presented a huge cake.

Four of O'Neill's teammates on the Indians' 1920 championship club — Bill Wambegans, Elmer Smith, Jack Grimes and George Ulis — were on hand to add to the tributes.

"Rick" Sells Famed Speedway to Hoosier Fan for $750,000

By The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 15 — Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, a 70-mile-an-hour daredevil of the automobile tracks 30 years ago, will be only a visitor from the aviation business when the groundbreaking ceremony for the new 1.5-mile Indianapolis motor speedway is held here today.

"Rick" sold the two-and-a-half mile Indianapolis motor speedway yesterday to Anton Hulman Jr., Terre Haute, Ind., sportsman and financier, for a price reported unofficially as about $750,000. Rickenbacker bought the plant in 1927 for $700,000.

The colorful captain, who went back to automobiles after shooting down 21 German airplanes and five balloons in the First World War, had to make a choice between his first love and his job as president of Eastern Airlines. The newer mode of transportation won.

The demands of running Eastern Airlines make it impossible for me to give the speedway the attention which it demands," Rickenbacker said.

The new management will be familiar to auto racing fans. Hulman, who will be chairman of the board, announced appointment of Wilbur Shaw, three-time winner of the Memorial day classic, as president and general manager. Old-timer T. E. (Pop) Myers will remain as vice-president.

The new owner heads the Clabber Girl Baking Powder Co. and owns real estate and utilities throughout the midwest. He has been an avid sportsman since starting in track, football and rowing at Yale.

The Terre Haute capitalist said the speedway plant would be improved immediately in preparation for the 1946 renewal of the race.

The first sanctioned air mail was flown in the United States from a temporary field post office in Long Island in 1911.

'STOP THE AMATEURS' Illinois Doped To Put Up Strong Fight Against OSU

By The Associated Press

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 15 — "Stop the amateurs" was the battle cry from the pro section today as approximately 140 golfers started the first lap of Mobile in the inaugural $10,000 Azalea Open golf tournament.

The "money boys" were reinforced for this fourth stop on the winter circuit by additions of Jug McSpaden of Philadelphia and Ellsworth Vines of Denver.

The amateurs, on the other hand, picked up some substantial reinforcements in their own in Freddy Haas of New Orleans, who broke Byron Nelson's winning streak in Memphis several months ago.

The pros decided informally to do something about the situation after a pair of Simon Pures came through to win the last two tournaments on the current tour.

Li. Cary Middlecoff, Memphis Army dentist, grabbed off the North and South Open at Pinehurst, N. C., and Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., captured the Durham, N. C., Open last week.

Snatches of Sports

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—Hottest current football tip is that Notre Dame's Hughey Devore is all set to switch to Navy next season.

Frank Leahy will be back at South Bend then; Devore would like to continue as a head coach; Swede Hagberg is slated for Sedalia and there has been plenty of semi-official talk that Navy would like to follow Army's example and get away from graduate coaching.

You can discount the stories that Devore might go to Syracuse or Fordham. . . . Ossie Solem is on his way out at Syracuse, but the soundest story from there seems to be that the college more likely will take somebody who has been a good assistant coach and try to build him up along with the team. . . . All signs at Fordham indicate big-time football won't come back soon.

Suggestion Box
"As the All-America eleven just named Army's Blanchard and Davis and pick the other nine to play a baseball game. . . . To make it closer, Army should play six-man football against the opponents' eleven." (Scoop Latimer, Greenville, S. C., News.)

Fifteen of the highest-priced yearlings of the 1945 horse sales—topped by a bull dog colt purchased for $38,000 by Circle M ranch—will winter at Hialeah race course. . . . # Widdoes Polishes Wingmen for Saturday Clash; Illini Lineup Undergoes Few Changes.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 15—The University of Illinois football team, Purdue's invasion. . . . Northwestern, winner of only one out of four conference games, may have a lot to say Saturday about Ohio State's chances of remaining in the title race.

The Buckeyes, with a 4-1-0 Big Ten record, are in second place behind league-leading Indiana, 4-0-1. The Illini, however, have had a strong defensive record all season and Coach Ray Eliot's team will be after its first victory over Ohio State in 11 years. Illinois last defeated the Bucks 14-13 in 1934.

Illinois has held Notre Dame and Indiana to one touchdown and held Michigan scoreless for three periods before losing. Last week, the offense rolled over Iowa 48-7, with Eliot's freshman halfback speedster, Jack Piers, and Tom gridders through two hours of defense.

Plans Changes

After yesterday's workout, Eliot said he would start Joe Saban at fullback in place of Jerry Cies and freshman Jim Valek at end in place of Bill Heiss.

Meanwhile, Ohio State's squad went through a brisk practice in the cold with Coach Carroll Widdoes devoting attention to grooming his wingmen.

Around other midwest camps: The Wisconsin squad held its last workout before departing for the game with Navy in Baltimore. The Badgers are slated to leave Madison today and to work out in Baltimore tomorrow. . . . Coach Fritz Crisler put his Michigan gridders through two hours of defense.

Ohio's 800,000 Hunters To Launch Season Tomorrow

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 15 — Eight hundred thousand hunters, many still from blaring other parts of the state, will be out at 11 a. m. tomorrow to launch the state's pheasant, quail and grouse season.

Hunters are expected to be out in force, but the conservation division predicts that the season will be found. The latter part of the season through the west and northwestern part of the state, but grouse have all but disappeared.

It is said that the pheasant season is a "mysterious" cycle when they become abundant only to come in abundance again in successive years.

The department reiterates its warning to be careful with shot guns, since they are as easily as hunted. Hunters are four-a-day on pheasant, two on quail and one on grouse after first day.

CANTON MAKES OFFER

Boston Braves Take Strings Off Roll To Build Title Winner

BILLY SOUTHWORTH Will Be Braving Cards With Him?

By CHIP ROYAL
AP Newsfeature Sports Editor
NEW YORK—John Quinn, general manager of the Boston Braves, wasn't kidding when he told your agent last spring that the National League Beantowners wouldn't spare any dollars to get the best in baseball that the long green can attract.

First, the Braves came up with the best minor league players they could find in double A ball, the stepping stone to the majors. Then, President Lou Perini and his stockholders took the rubber off their rolls and outbid all clubs for pitcher Mort Cooper.

Now, they've gone and snatched the best manager in the National League (his record proves it, 620 games won, 346 lost with the Cardinals). And you can bet your last dollar that Billy Southworth didn't leave the Cardinals for anything but money.

Just think of it. Here's a manager who won three of the last four National League pennants, and two world series. Billy the kid was all set to continue with a team to which the baseball experts conceded the 1946 senior circuit pennant even before the first game of the last World Series.

It's almost too much to believe. In Detroit, the night preceding the Tigers-Cubs initial clash Oct. 3, the writers were all talking about the 60 or 70 prospects and stars coming back to the Cardinals next year and what Southworth would do with them.

Even Billy admitted he would have his headaches with three good outfielders and infielders plus about 20 pitchers who have been starters.

But the Royal nose should have smelled something in the woodpile when the brown eyes saw "The Kid" closeted with Quinn and Perini for several hours one time. Yet it didn't seem possible. The little man—known affectionately as "the boss"—was the great mentor who would leave a team good enough to win the National League flag for many years.

Money talked, of course. It seems to have a way of doing that with anyone connected with the Redbird organization. Even owner Sam Breadon admits he's interested in any he can get—and he must have got quite a roll for Cooper and Southworth.

Before we go into the new boss of the Cards and something about Billy, here's a little tip. See if Walker Cooper, Martin Marion, Ray Saunders and, maybe, Emil Verban don't follow their old boss to Boston.

Eddie Dyer, the newcomer to the major league managerial ranks, is 45 years old and a former director of the Cardinals' farm clubs. He succeeded Branch Rickney in that post.

Dyer will be handling his first team in the big time but he's been in the St. Louis organization handling various jobs for 24 years. He hails from Houston and once managed the Texas League team there.

Southworth started in baseball back in 1912 with Portsmouth of the Ohio State League. He was an active player until 1933. "The Kid" got his first job leading a Braves!

Marietta Profs Like GI Joes, Rate Them Well Over Average

By The Associated Press
MARIETTA, O., Nov. 15—GI Joe, whose return to college brought apprehension to professors a few months ago, has turned out to be a better-than-average student, Marietta college instructors agreed today.

Not only that, the instructors report, but the veterans stimulate their teachers because of their earnest desire to learn, their common-sense views and their ability to adapt themselves readily to campus life.

Barely six months ago the problem of educating returned war veterans was giving colleges a headache.

GI Joe isn't going to be the same when he gets back, the workers cautioned. He's going to be hard, cynical, anti-social and psychoneurotic, they warned.

Lots of Controversy

Educational features of the GI bill of rights already had provoked considerable controversy among educators.

Seasoned educators expressed belief that numerous veterans would enter college, but that few would stick it out. Readjustments would be too great for them to overcome, they predicted.

Others argued that the presence on the campus of those supposedly cynical heroes would disrupt educational programs.

Self-styled "realists" pointed out that it would cost the government nearly as much to keep a veteran in school for one year as it did to keep a battery of 100's in action two minutes.

The majority of educators, however, wanted GI Joe to have his chance. One of them was William A. Shimer, who became president of Marietta college last June. Previously Shimer had commanded a V-12 unit in a Virginia college. Marietta cut academic red tape and modified its curriculum and entrance procedure for veterans without lowering scholastic standards.

Currently 34 ex-servicemen are attending Marietta under provisions of the GI bill of rights. Professors have had time to observe the veterans in and out of classrooms. Six weeks' grades are in and instructors agree that Joe is above the average as a student.

Few Have Trouble

Of the 34, two earned straight-A grades. The number of B's, C's and D's were about as usual. Only seven were having trouble but all of them entered college late and needed opportunity to catch up.

GI Joe is well liked as a student. Here's what the professors say:

Dr. Robert L. James, history—"Definite superior students. They think straight and express themselves clearly and well. No, I don't think their military experience has had too much to do with it. They just happen to be more mature than the average student and have a more serious attitude toward their work. Psychoneurotic? Maladjusted? Not at all. Veterans adjust themselves more quickly to new conditions than other people do—they've had more practice doing it."

Dr. George L. Sixbey, English—"They are the most exciting students to teach. They bring experience and hard common sense to class with them. They are in college because they want what they can get here. And their writing constantly amazes me. A GI's theme has a beginning, a middle and an end, something I've been trying to teach freshmen for years."

Marla E. Eggenson, biology—"They ask intelligent questions. Their presence in my classes stimulate me. They are serious about their work. I consider them as among my best students."

Dr. Theodore Bennett, mathematics—"Their seriousness and willingness to work hard more than compensates for their being rusty from having been out of school a few years."

Ralph W. Whipple, geology—"I tell my students were GI's, I wouldn't have anything to worry about. They are willing to work. They listen to what I tell them—and even remember some of it. It's a pleasure to teach them."

The consensus points to GI Joe as an above-average student who can be expected to do all right for himself and his college.

Train Girls for KP, County Cancer Society Blue Star Head Says Unit To Hold Meeting

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Nov. 15—Teach young American girls "KP" because our boys hate kitchen police activities, Blue Star Mother President Mrs. Edna May Standing of Cleveland said yesterday.

The mother of three service sons recommended in a statement that girls as well as boys get compulsory military training.

"Girls," said Mrs. Standing, could be taught the fundamentals of nursing, first aid, cooking and the technical duties they accomplished during the recent emergency.

"Why not relieve our boys from kitchen police activities, if they don't like anyway?"

A meeting of the Marion County Unit of the National Council for the Home of the Disabled, held at the Marion Hotel last night, was held to discuss the proposed unit.

Mrs. Standing, who is a member of the unit, said she had been asked to make a statement on the subject of compulsory military training for girls.

Cordell Hull

THE irony of a Nobel peace award to Cordell Hull at the close of history's fiercest war is more apparent than real. Alfred B. Nobel's will directed that the award should go to the person who "best promoted the fraternity of nations and the abolition or diminution of standing armies and the formation and increase of peace congresses."

Mr. Hull's contribution to the practice of a good neighbor policy and to the convening of the San Francisco conference qualified him for the recognition. Furthermore of peace may not be judged by current events. Peace will be secured ultimately, if the ambition of peace is not vain, by universal acceptance of the ideals and practice of a doctrine of good will.

It is a project of ideas that lift up men and nations—the triumph of the sound ideas over the unsound ideas that have betrayed peaceful men's ambitions through the ages. Mr. Hull's ideas have been sound in our time. They have been unharmed by repudiation. They will be sound in another generation—in many generations to come.

Like all the others who have worked steadfastly in what they knew was the right direction without seeming to make material progress, Mr. Hull may have greater stature in the future than he has now. His countrymen have been aware of this possibility. They have resented the circumstances that robbed him of some of the credit he deserved as a sound thinker in the ways of peace. They believe that the award of the Nobel peace award to him in 1945 is recognition of all who have continued to believe in the practice of peace while the circumstances demanded the prosecution of war.

Dilemma in Right and Wrong

THE extreme pressure that caused the Palestine problem to be part of the discussion between President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee probably will not be reduced by the decision to set up a British-American commission to study it. The United States, in effect, is promising to help Britain hold a hot potato that was made in Britain. The Balfour Declaration which promised that Palestine would be a national home for Jews, was not issued by the United States, nor is this government responsible for the White Paper in 1939 or any of the other British statements of policy that have fired the Palestine controversy. Mr. Truman, it appears, has taken a politician's way out of a dilemma between right and wrong—and a dilemma that was not of his making.

The truth of the Palestine problem is that it will not be solved until the Arabs are solved. They are the real problem. To all the excellent arguments made in behalf of Palestine as a Jewish homeland, the Arabs are deaf. Reason has not prevailed against their opposition. It seems doubtful that reason can prevail. The alternative of force, for obvious reasons, is not attractive to those who would have to exert the force. While it has appeared to some proponents of the Jewish cause that the trouble lies wholly with the British and may appear, now that responsibility is to be shared with the United States, that Great Britain and the United States are jointly responsible for Arabian bigotry, the fact is that the Arabian population of Palestine also must share responsibility. There are no easy answers to the dilemma in right and wrong that the Palestine problem has posed for statesmanship.

The Patter Is Familiar

THE intrusion of a new state of China incidents on our ambitions for international harmony and cooperative security is anywhere—but growing more realistic day by day.

There is something familiar about the patter of the Chinese Communists. Worse even than its familiarity is that of the replies of United States spokesmen in both China and Washington. The dialogue has been heard before, in many places.

To the arbitrary demands and studied results of the Chinese Communists Americans are giving the customary courteous answers and earnest assurances that the United States intends to depart from the scene as rapidly as possible. The Communists are told this government has no long-term commitments and no desire whatever to become involved in another nation's dispute. They are told that the United States has no quarrel with them, no intention of taking sides in the civil war they are fighting with the Chungking, no intention of doing anything but clearing out.

Curiously, nothing is heard from the government at Chungking, which not so long ago was part of a Big Five and which American taxpayers helped to support for the sake of its resistance to the Japanese. In the presence of a clamorous and belligerent minority that has borrowed the name of Russia's political monopoly and the tactics of Communist brusqueness the world over, the United States once more is showing signs of being backed down in a name-calling contest it had no part in starting and has no heart for continuing. China, apparently, is going to be left to its own devices, so the Communists who are doing the loudest talking won't be interrupted.

Mid-East Course for U. S.

By Walter Lippmann

THE President had no choice but to "accede" to the view of the British government that it was not in a position to adopt the "policy" he had recommended—namely to grant an additional 100,000 certificates for the immigration of Jews into Palestine.

While the United States has considerable influence in the Middle East, it does not now have responsibilities or power. What can be done by influence alone is, in the conditions of the Middle East, something but not much.

The predominant power in the Middle East is Great Britain. Not only does it hold the mandate for Palestine, but it is in fact the principal western power in relation to the whole Moslem world from Tripoli in the central Mediterranean to the Netherlands Indies in the south Pacific.

The British position in this extended region of the earth is precarious. For Britain is deficient in the essential elements of authority—prestige, in military power, and in capital resources.

Prestige Threatened

Her prestige is impaired by the rising tide of nationalism among the Moslem and Hindu peoples of North Africa and South Asia. The military power which the British Isles can maintain in that part of the world is exceedingly limited; as a matter of fact, Great Britain has to draw in India as the affairs in Java illustrates, for the troops which would be required if her authority were put severely to the test.

Finally, Great Britain is now heavily in debt, as a result of the war. India, Egypt, Palestine, and also Iraq, for an imperial power, is a protection power, even for an international trust, it is wholly abnormal that the dependent peoples should be the creditors rather than be able to draw upon the sovereign power for their own capital development.

The are the determining reasons why the British government—in spite of the public pledges given by the Labor party before

'TIL DEATH DO US PART?

The Unpredictable Boatman

By Raymond Moley

TO ANYONE who knows Andrew Jackson Higgins, the news of his determination to close up shop is no surprise. Mr. Higgins is a man of impulse, of something close to imaginative genius, of boundless energy and ambition. To close the books on an ambition is no hardship for such a personality. His vivid genius can open a dozen others. Heaven knows what will come next, but something will come.

This impulse with the AFL is not only the end of a manufacturing project, but probably of a political one as well. Friends of Mr. Higgins in 1942 and 1943 were talking about what a "natural" he, with his unparalleled alliance with the AFL, would be for a political career, even for President. These would be the constituent elements in this dream boom: a candidate born in the North, with a career in the South, Democrat with an Irish name and the gift of Old Hickory's name as well; a friend of Roosevelt; color, vitality, a vigorous eloquence, a large and robust family and ideas by the boatload. There was also the AFL, devoted to Mr. Higgins and ready to go to town for him.

Dream Blows Up

This dream is gone. But a man who has gone through the Higgins experience will emerge with unexpected plans. He has lost his business, before, but those fall-

Men with Missions

Clement Richard Attlee, third British prime minister to visit the United States, is less colorful than either Winston Churchill, whom he succeeded, or James Ramsay MacDonald. The latter's visit in the autumn of 1939, four months after he became prime minister, the second time, makes an interesting point of comparison.

MacDonald was 62, Attlee's present age, and also the head of a Labor government, though without the numerical strength of Attlee's party in the House of Commons. Attlee today is more conservative than MacDonald was inclined to be in the early days of his responsibility.

MacDonald's mission was to talk about naval limitation; he was a pacifist who had opposed World War I and hoped to avert World War II by disarmament. Attlee's primary mission is to obtain United States credit for British reconstruction, against the objections of those who insist that the British must pay for their own reconstruction.

MacDonald's guest, Herbert Hoover, stood for everything the British socialist opposed in economics. They had little in common, except confidence in disarmament. Attlee's host, Harry Truman, is emerging as the political sponsor of a semi-socialist program which some observers suspect is more amenable to the organized labor minority in the United States than Attlee's Labor government is to organized labor in Britain.

government. For strategic reasons there would have to be high priority for an agreement providing the guarantees—given and taken and capable of mutual enforcement—about the Dardanelles, the accessibility and the security of the Black Sea and the Mediterranean.

The question whether we wish to become a Middle Eastern power is, of course, ultimately our own decision. But if we are to become such a power, the question of how and under what conditions is one which will have to be negotiated at the very highest levels of diplomacy in London, Moscow, and Washington. The conclusions of the Anglo-American committee of inquiry will be determined by how these greater questions, which are outside its terms of reference, are answered.

Other Years

From News of

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Friday, Nov. 15, 1935. Opening of the hunting season brought tragedy in Marion with the fatal wounds suffered by Augustus Van Kleeck, 32, treasurer and plant manager of the Wilson Bohannon Co.

Red Cross drive workers reported $2,588 raised at the end of the first week of the annual roll call.

Earl E. Thomas, Marion county representative in the state legislature, told a newly organized county tax committee that he would oppose any move in the general assembly to increase taxes.

Addison Bain was elected permanent chairman of the newly-organized Marion Townsend club. Mrs. Mary Jennings was elected vice president, Robert G. Mish, secretary, and Alfred Horn, treasurer.

Defenders of Ethiopia's second largest town, Harar, were fleeing in disorder with Mussolini's troops only 28 miles away.

It was Sunday, Nov. 15, 1915. Twenty-one persons were killed in automobile accidents in Ohio over the week-end.

Announcement was made at St. Mary Catholic church that Archbishop James T. McNicholas would visit the church in the near future.

Change of Mayors in New York

LA GUARDIA.—Welcome to City Hall. I never expected to say that to a Tom candidate. You won easily.

O'Dwyer.—Your campaign was a great one. You'll like it here, Bill.

LaGuardia.—You'll like it here, Bill.

O'Dwyer.—You set a pace that will be hard to follow, mayor.

LaGuardia.—I'll leave you the same pace and you, too, can make good.

O'Dwyer.—I suppose you hate to leave being mayor fifty years.

LaGuardia.—It was not fifty years; it seemed that long to the radio audience.

O'Dwyer.—Well, anyhow, you were here a long time.

LaGuardia.—My run was exceeded only by "Ade's Irish Rose," "Lift With Father," and "Tobacco Road."

O'Dwyer.—I must say you stood it well.

LaGuardia.—We theatrical people have to be rugged. I kept fit through stiff physical exercises. I played football with my critics every day.

O'Dwyer.—Sometimes two or three times a day. Well, I don't like to feel I'm putting you on.

LaGuardia.—It couldn't be done by a mayor than you, even if that wasn't the way I put it in the campaign speeches. Bill, I gave you your start in a way, when I appointed you to the bench from the police force, remember?

O'Dwyer.—Yes indeed.

LaGuardia.—I'll have to be more careful to see that when I bench a good man he stays benched. There's only one man I'd rather see take this job than a cop. And that's a fireman. Bill, I don't mind turning everything else over to you, but I'd like to keep the boots, helmet and fire axe.

O'Dwyer.—That's okay. I think the firemen are entitled to a little secrecy from now on, anyhow.

LaGuardia.—You'll want my microphone, of course, and for that I have the deepest attachment.

O'Dwyer.—I don't think I'll use it, thanks.

LaGuardia.—Mayor of New York without a mike? Impossible. It's the best feature of the press. Without it how are you going to handle the press, the courts, the bingo players, the horse track interests and other critics?

O'Dwyer.—I'll manage it somehow.

LaGuardia.—Will you want my theme song, "The Halls of Montezuma"?

O'Dwyer.—No, I think it's time the Marries got it back.

LaGuardia.—How about my book "The Lost Flower's Unabridged Dictionary of Expletives"?

O'Dwyer.—I have a feeling I can get along without it.

LaGuardia.—But, Bill, take it from me, there are times when critics get your goat. What are you going to do without this book?

O'Dwyer.—Have you never heard a County Mayo man when angry?

LaGuardia.—Well, good luck. Remember, I'll be watching you for the next four years and keeping my eye on every contact you have with Tammany Hall.

O'Dwyer.—Patience and fortitude!

No More Bird Slums

By Truman Twill

In Chicago on a crane runway in the Republic Steel plant a pigeon built a nest out of late turnings last summer and its ingenuity was rewarded with a picture in the company magazine.

It is nice to know that pigeons are on the toes in the search for new building material. It is nice to know that a big steel company appreciates a plug for its product, even if it comes from a lowly bird who stole the idea and they will be an outlet for lathe turnings.

Being organic a sometime critic of bird slums in the bad graces of the bird walkers was nothing but perfection in their feathered nests. We hesitate to speak frankly, but there is a stern challenge in the postwar housing program for slum creatures.

Recently we had the privilege of examining the nest built last summer in the apple tree at the Twillery by the cardinals. It was a masterpiece of paper scraps jammed together in wartime housing project—no more than a nest for Lucy, the lady cardinal, to lay her eggs and hatch them, with the old man's time help. We could have made a better nest ourselves—with one behind us.

The trouble is that birds, with the exception of a few bright ones like orioles who know how to weave, are tradition-bound. What was good enough for grandpa and grandma is good enough for them. That's why the Republic Steel nest deserves a better badge. Or if it was a bad idea, merit badges to both of them.

We are on the threshold of a new era in bird life. Take prefabrication. It could turn out a million bird nests in less time than it takes to build a dozen old-fashioned litters of sticks and string—and better. Birds could enjoy a few workweeks and have time to raise their young.

Nests might be better designed, more comfortable, more compact and cleaner. What the country wants is to get rid of its bird slums, reduce juvenile delinquency among the birds that are going to be the big birds tomorrow. One-third of this nation's birds are housed. What they need is not only plastics, synthetic rubber, spun glass, aluminum capsules. Nothing is too good for them. The way we are beginning to think about them are more deserving of the good life than the people anyway.

Yank Style Freedom of Speech Finds Jap People Tongue-Tied

By DUANE HENNESSY
AP Feature Writer
TOKYO, Nov. 15—You can lead a Japanese to a microphone, but you can't always make him speak.
Despite their Allied-brought freedom of speech, the people of Nippon remain silent because of their deeply ingrained respect for authority and obedience. Col. Sidney F. Mashbir, head of the Allied translation and interpretation section, explained.
Mashbir said giving the Japanese freedom of speech simply was a matter of issuing a directive abolishing all restraining legislation, but to get them to use this freedom to create a democracy was something else. It also is hard to get them to speak out in their relationship with the Allies.
"One of the causes of their reluctance is 'enryo,' which is a conception so characteristically Japanese that it can not be translated by any single English word, but really is 'far-fetched thinking,'" Mashbir said.
Enryo really is a hesitancy. As a simple example, a Japanese wants to ask a favor but decides to keep the thought to himself. Or he goes into a home where much food is on the table and hungrily wants to eat much, but restrains himself.
"Enryo prevents the Japanese people from effectively discussing their problems among themselves and stands in the way of any real expression of public opinion. It also makes the Japanese hesitate to make any recommendations or frankly discuss matters with Allied authorities."
Mashbir cited as an example complications in a recent order to the Japanese to furnish General MacArthur with a list of Japanese magazines and periodicals. The Japanese replied they had quit keeping such a list when the Allies abolished Japanese censorship of the press. They said they had foreseen that the Allies would want a list, but when asked why they had not suggested that one be kept, they relied that they had not
